

Speech of the PCM Italy to the International Conference in Hamburg
24.11.12

On behalf of the PCm Italy we bring our militant salute to this International Conference to support of People's War in India.

The strength of this conference reaches our comrades in India, the fighters, the masses in arms led by Maoists.

Proletarian internationalism - Lenin said - is to make revolution in our country and support the same type of revolution in any other country in the world.

That ongoing in India is a revolution of the same type we want to make in an imperialist country like Italy, and generally in the imperialist countries, a revolution based on the revolutionary war, whose main players are the proletarians and the masses, a revolution that fights for a world without imperialism and, at the same time, for socialism and communism.

For our party the campaign to support the People's War is an essential part of the revolutionary work of the communists. Our members, the vanguard proletarians in our country, the rebel youth, the revolutionary women should be forged to live in harmony with the people's wars, as rich experiences and point of reference for the anti-imperialist struggle in the world. We always did it, with the People's War in Peru, with the People's War in Nepal during its ten glorious years, with the People's war in Turkey. As advanced detachment of the proletariat, we consider this work as strategic and political.

The People's War in India is today considered by the Indian state the main enemy and generally one of the main enemies of imperialism. Its advanced represents a change in the strength balance in the world between revolution and counter-revolution, an important proof that confirms that the principal contradiction in the world is that between imperialism and the oppressed peoples and the revolution is the main tendency.

There can be no revolutionary vanguard party in the imperialist countries without being in a real link with the People's War in India, and not a liaison of pure propaganda or internet cafe, but in the fire of the class struggle and closely linked with the masses.

For this reason, we have promoted and support the International Committee and every day work to expand it. Thus we look at this conference as a political mass event, a crushing blow to imperialism.

The road to revolution in the imperialist countries is difficult and complex, and this work is just at the beginning. But the crisis of imperialism and the storms of the struggling masses tell us that we must dare to win and advance.

The People's War in India calls us to a quantum leap to give a revolutionary answer in our country as in any imperialist country in crisis in which the masses rise up and fight.

It is an expression of internationalism and genuine anti-imperialism to grasp the political significance of the effort made also with this conference to isolate the Indian regime and the operation Green Hunt.

Hamburg, the red Hamurg, welcomes this event, whose importance will be even more recognized in time.

Let us unite in support of People's War!
Let us unite for the revolution in our countries!
Death to imperialism, freedom to the people!

People's War Until Communism!
